Forced Labor/Child Labor Prevention:

We implement Supply Chain & Human Rights/Codes of Conduct to all our partners via an annual audit process. These annual accountability steps include but are not limited to:

1. Mapping activities & supply chains
2. Conducting internal assessments of risks of forced labor and/or child labor in the organization's activities and supply chains
3. Contracting an external assessment of risks of forced labor and/or child labor in the organization's activities and supply chains
4. Developing and implementing an action plan for addressing forced labor and/or child labor
5. Gathering information on worker recruitment and maintaining internal controls to ensure that all workers are recruited voluntarily
6. Addressing practices in the organization's activities and supply chains that increase the risk of forced labor and/or child labor
7. Developing and implementing due diligence policies and processes for identifying, addressing and prohibiting the use of forced labor and/or child labor in the organization's activities and supply chains
8. Carrying out a prioritization exercise to focus due diligence efforts on the most severe risks of forced and child labor
9. Requiring suppliers to have in place policies and procedures for identifying and prohibiting the use of forced labor and/or child labor in their activities and supply chains
10. Developing and implementing child protection policies and processes
11. Developing and implementing anti-forced labor/child labor contractual clauses
12. Developing and implementing anti-forced labor/child labor standards, codes of conduct and/or compliance checklists
13. Auditing & monitoring suppliers
14. Developing and implementing grievance mechanisms

15. Developing and implementing training and awareness materials on forced labor/child labor
16. Developing and implementing procedures to track performance in addressing forced labor/child labor
17. Engaging with supply chain partners on the issue of addressing forced labor and/or child labor
18. Engaging with civil society groups, experts and other stakeholders on the issue of addressing forced labor and/or child labor
19. Engaging directly with workers and families potentially affected by forced labor and/or child labor to assess and address risks

Further Details of Due Diligence:

We have an internal social compliance team that regularly visits our Asia Pacific factories and that will also undertake an annual audit of the facilities, which includes a forced labor component. For any factories that our internal team cannot visit in person, we engage a locally based third party audit firm to visit. Our internal social compliance team holds an annual supplier conference to share best practices and review case studies, this is in addition to compulsory training that suppliers are periodically required to attend. We have also provided basic social compliance training to our Quality & Safety team that are on site at facilities or which visit factories to be aware of issues and report to them. All our primary factories are required to have a social compliance team in place on site. A supplier's adherence to these compliance standards is measured as a KPI in their annual performance assessment.

In addition to the internal team audit, there is also an external audit required by clients which is undertaken by accredited third party audit firms (for example: Ethical Supply Chain Program).

We have two forms of whistleblowing available to factory employees, one goes direct to tms and the other goes direct to the Ethical Supply Chain org. Posters with details are put up on visible areas around the factories.

Assessing Effectiveness of Due Diligence:

1. Regularly reviewing or auditing the organization's policies and procedures related to forced labor and child labor
2. Tracking relevant performance indicators, such as levels of employee awareness, numbers of cases reported and solved through grievance mechanisms and numbers of contracts with anti-forced labor/child labor clauses
3. Partnering with an external organization to conduct an independent review or audit of the organization's actions
4. Working with suppliers to measure the effectiveness of their actions to address forced labor and child labor, including by tracking relevant performance indicators

We have identified risks to the best of our knowledge, & will continue to strive to identify any emerging risks, but we have not identified any instances of forced labor/child labor in our supply chain.
